PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Full Stack Software Student (Graduated), CodeWorks   2018-2019

- Trained in Front and Back-End software development building full scale applications from start to finish.
- Participated in two 24-hour hack-a-thons in which scrum methods were implemented to achieve maximum efficiency.
- Collaborated and partner coded with peers designing applications to develop the skills needed to work in a development team.
- "Brackets"- This was a group capstone project in a team of five that allowed users to build, manage, and participate in tournaments with multiple formats. Built with Vue.js and a library called Treant. Responsible for creating dynamic tournament brackets based on the number of entries to display properly on the screen and creating unique user profile pages
- "Battle Cards"- A competitive card game challenging opponents' card values, with the highest value as the winner. Designed and developed with Vue.js using an external API.

M1A2 Armor Crewman, U.S. Army   2013-2016

- Competed in Iron Sullivan cup, a tank competition at Fort Bliss that included the top tank crews from each battalion and took first place.
- After competing in the Iron Sullivan Cup, moved on to compete in the Sullivan cup, which is a tank competition that includes all the best tank crews across the entirety of the army. We placed in the middle of the table and the competition was an amazing experience with rigorous crew tests.
- Received two Arcom's(Army Commendation Medals) for meritorious achievement in the two Sullivan Cup competitions.
- The tank crew was consistently setting the bar and being chosen for a multitude of tasks from physical training competitions to tank competitions, always exceeding expectations and consistently producing great results.
- Deployed to Djibouti, Africa where I managed four soldiers for the period of nine months.
